KDOT quarterly report provides spending, operations update

A quarterly report that provides an easy-to-read update on the Kansas Department of Transportation and the T-WORKS transportation program has been initiated by KDOT.

The newest report includes a regional breakdown of construction lettings scheduled for this quarter, a summary of winter storm costs, a graphic presentation of KDOT revenue sources and where the money goes, and a status report on the "$8 million promise." Under the 10-year T-WORKS program, every Kansas county is promised a minimum of $8 million in transportation spending.

"This publication is modeled after business reports and is a quick way for Kansans to learn how and where their transportation dollars are being spent," said Transportation Secretary Mike King.

The report can be viewed on the KDOT website <http://www.ksdot.org> under "Projects/Publications."
